

U. S. TRIES TO CALM CENTRAL AMERICA

State Department Approves
Conference of Three Presidents.

CLERICALS STIR TROUBLE

Revolutionary Movement of Sporadic Character on Honduran Border.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
WASHINGTON, Aug. 19.—While this Government has not officially sponsored the conference between the Presidents of Nicaragua, Honduras and Salvador on board the Tacoma off the coast of Salvador, it was learned here to-day that the conference has the approval of the State Department.

Reports to this Government for some time have indicated the possibility of friction in Central America as a result of revolutionary ferment and the allegations of the Government of Honduras that aid is being extended to disaffected elements both by Nicaragua and Salvador. John E. Ramey, American Minister to Nicaragua, accompanied President Chamorro to the conference on board the Tacoma. Whether he will be merely an onlooker or is authorized to make suggestions of a friendly character to the Presidents could not be learned.

For some months a revolutionary movement of a sporadic and unorganized character has been in progress in Honduras, according to official advices reaching here. The movement is said to have had its incentive in the reaction to the conservative administration of Honduras under the influence of the clerical element, which, some hold, is largely responsible for the ferment. This, however, is somewhat discounted because of the fact that professional revolutionists are always busy and ready to assume whatever garb is most suitable or helpful for the occasion.

Complaint has been made in both Honduras and Salvador of the activities of the Mexican clerical party, which is said to be financing Carlos Lagos for the post of President of Honduras and Alfredo Quinones for the Presidency of Salvador. From the viewpoint of this Government the interest in this party is in the fact that the clerical element and the candidates it supports are said to be very hostile to the United States.

Throughout all the Central American States there appears at the moment to be a lineup of two elements, the liberal elements seeking to prevent consolidation and the conservatives to establish one Central American union, which has the enthusiastic support of the clerical party in all the countries.

ASKS DIVORCE, ALLEGING WIFE IS LEGALLY DEAD

Action Is First in Westchester
Under New Law.

The first divorce action brought in Westchester county under the new domestic relations law was begun yesterday at White Plains by Robert McConkey against his wife, asking that the marriage be dissolved on the ground that she is legally dead. The new law provides that if a husband or wife is absent for five years and cannot be found the other may get a divorce under the Enoch Arden law. Justice Seeger signed an order permitting publication of a notice of the suit. In the event that the wife does not reply or appear her husband will be granted a decree. The marriage was performed in 1912 after a five days' courtship. For five days more everything was serene until McConkey learned that his wife had been married before and that she had been convicted of shooting at a married woman. McConkey says when he confronted her with this story she admitted it all, flew into a rage and drawing a revolver took a shot at him, but missed. Then, he says, she tried to set fire to their house. He had her arrested but did not appear to prosecute and she disappeared and he has not heard of her since.

With Wife at Wheel.

Special Dispatch to THE NEW YORK HERALD.
ATLANTIC CITY, Aug. 19.—Samuel C. Foser, aged 64, of 6231 Bywood street, Pittsburgh, was killed on the Philadelphia road near Egg Harbor to-day when the automobile in which he was riding turned over. Foser, accompanied by his wife, Sarah, and his nephew, Samuel Foser, was on his way from Waretown to Glassboro. His wife was at the wheel. Suddenly he called her attention to something. She turned, and as she did so the car swerved. Foser grabbed the wheel, jerking the car around, causing it to overturn. He was pinned beneath the machine. The others escaped with slight injuries.
